

SHALL THERESA

CARRY ON?

This government is so open to ridicule, so easy to caricature as a comedy. Can't you imagine Theresa May returning from Carry On Up The Conference and declaiming to her husband, “Infamy, infamy. They've all got it infamy”?

Boris needs no lessons in buffoonery. His emotional intelligence reached its peak in the playground at the age of eight and stayed there.

Michael Gove's wife told him when he and his Leave mates won the referendum,

“You were only supposed to blow the bloody doors off.”

And so they were because to climb the Tory greasy pole was all that was important to them.

The Grenfell Tower fire was a shock to them. For a brief moment they were on the back foot and did not know what to say except for platitudes and promises. But a spasm of guilt soon passes. Those promises to fund much needed improvements have been passed on to others who lack the resources but must be prepared to take the blame when the job is slow to be done or there is another calamity.

If there are bombs and bullets at home we have a ready label. 'Terrorism' trips off the tongues of Tories (and Blairites) who divert our minds from what our governments have done to terrify innocent others.

Not to worry, we shall still make a few bob selling arms to Saudi Arabia. We shall please the Americans by celebrating the crime of the Balfour Declaration. And we shall grow, grow, grow.... not the economy but the gap between the deserving rich and the undeserving poor.

Carry on Theresa.
